Of course you hate it that your hair's thinning.

The image in the mirror just doesn't fit your self-image.

But you've put it off. Luckily, with recent advances, your timing is now perfect.

How does a hair transplant work?

With today's popular Follicular Unit Extraction (FUE) method, 'grafts' of live hair follicles are taken directly from the thick hair at the back and sides of the head. They are then carefully implanted in the balding areas. This safe, painless, low-impact approach means a quicker recovery with no noticeable scarring, compared to the traditional surgical 'strip' approach.

Will I have to have my head shaved?

Up until now, the FUE technique required that at least some of your hair be closely shaved. This is an issue for both men and women, who want to return to work and social activities as soon as possible.

Solution: Dr. Dan Danyo at North Atlanta Hair Restoration has now perfected the Shaveless FUE method. With no shaving, the temporary effects of the procedure are generally concealed, so you can resume your normal schedule, often in as soon as a couple of days.

How will I get the very best results?

Unfortunately, standard techniques for removing the delicate grafts can allow them to dry out and wither before re-implanting.

Solution: Dr. Danyo employs cutting-edge SmartGraft technology, which keeps the tissue fresh and viable. This means greater 'yields' and sturdier grafts, resulting in a fuller, healthier head of hair.

Shaveless FUE + SmartGraft:

A unique, state-of-the-art approach with minimal impact, virtual concealment, and more permanent, natural-looking hair.

A Dual Approach for Fuller Hair

ACell treatment creates new hair growth.

In this simple procedure, a natural biologic agent is injected into the surface of the scalp. As stem cells are activated, they stimulate the process of hair regeneration.

Many people with thinning hair report noticeable growth. Ask if you are a good candidate for this exciting new approach.

PRP injections thicken each strand of hair.

Since platelets and proteins in your own blood are rich in growth factors, they can be isolated and injected to make your scalp a healthier, more nurturing environment for new hair as well as your existing hair.

Platelet Rich Plasma (PRP) therapy can contribute to hair volume in a variety of ways. Although results vary, this cutting-edge treatment has been found to produce hair growth up to 80% of the time.

Scalp Micropigmentation

Make thinning areas less noticeable.

You'll be amazed at the effect of tiny, medical-grade 'tattoo dots.' For those with dark, thinning hair, the exposed scalp where you part your hair can virtually disappear.

Dr. Danyo at North Atlanta Hair Restoration can deliver realistic results by applying the painted 'follicles' and blending them in with the existing hair.

Although this approach offers instant results, it may need to be repeated in a few years.

Once hair loss starts, it generally gets worse—until you do something about it.

You'll look better. You'll feel better.
You'll be so glad you did this!
